

UNESCO's core values

UNESCO in Denmark works towards ensuring that core values such as education for all, freedom of expression, democracy, protection of cultural heritage and equality shape everyone's life and everyday life. The UN's 17 Global Goals for Sustainable Development are a natural and integral part of UNESCO's work and vision.

Global Goals Council

As a UNESCO SDG School, you are encouraged to set up a Global Goals Council, where students are represented and have democratic impact. In the Global Goals Council students act as representatives of their school and are responsible for communicating their school's experiences to others in the network.

Young Ambassadors

Every year, the UNESCO network provides training for future Young Ambassadors. Their task is through "youth-to-youth dissemination" to convey UNESCO's values and norms to pupils and students at the SDG Schools – thus creating knowledge, commitment and incentive to work with UNESCO's values and Global Goals.

At UNESCO-ASP.DK you can find inspiration and a lot of concrete information on:

How to become a UNESCO SDG School?

List of Danish UNESCO SDG Schools

Inspiration for teaching of sustainable development and global citizenship

unesco-asp.dk

INFORMATION:

National coordinator:
Poul Erik Christoffersen
Mail: pec@ungdomsbyen.dk
Phone: +45 44 91 46 46
Direct: +45 21 74 42 75

The Youth Town, c/o Globalhagen
Faelledvej 12 C
2200 Copenhagen N.,
Denmark.

UNESCO Sustainable Development Goals (SDG) Schools

A worldwide school network for Global Citizenship and Sustainable Development

United Nations
Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization

National Coordination
Denmark

UNESCO
Associated Schools

An international innovation project

UNESCO SDG Schools are part of the UNESCO Associated Schools Project Network. The worldwide school network consists of 11.500 educational institutions in 182 countries. UNESCO SDG Schools will help in spreading the UN's 17 Global Goals as well as UNESCO's values of peace, intercultural understanding and tolerance.

SDG Schools in Denmark

The Danish part of the UNESCO's ASP network consists of primary schools, upper secondary education, vocational education, continuing education, folk high schools, VUC (Adult Education Centers) and vocational colleges with a total of more than 100.000 pupils / students and more than 10.000 employees. Schools are committed to working with sustainable development, global citizenship, and the dissemination of UNESCO values across disciplines and age groups.

Partnerships around the world

Through the international network, schools can establish partnerships and collaborate on academic themes. The network organizes youth conferences - most recently with the participation of young people from Ghana, Lebanon, Serbia, Spain, South Africa, Turkey, and the Virgin Island.

Global citizenship and sustainable development

UNESCO SDG Schools make a special contribution to achieving Global Goal 4: Quality Education. Since the launch of UN 17 Global Goals, the network has worked to spread the important message through education, activities and partnerships.

Professional themes such as intercultural competence, human rights, Climate Ready and the environment make up the network's content.

The whole school is included

Schools are invited to involve all actors so that the school administration, technical staff, teachers, students and parents have an opportunity to focus on sustainability and become part of the global community.

Inspiration and community

Click on unesco-asp.dk where there are exciting learning materials ready for use. Get started teaching about sustainable development and global citizenship. And we encourage you to share your school's lesson plans - as an inspiration to others.

On the English section of unesco-asp.dk you will find inspiration for establishing and developing international partnerships. internationale partnerskaber.

unesco-asp.dk